set rules of behavior and self discipline for themselves. Particular emphasis is put on table manners, since they will be dining in restaurants for the rest of the year. For a breach of manners, such as talking too loudly or throwing mashed potatoes, the boys will send an offender from the table to stand with his face against the wall until they think he has learned his lesson.

On the eve of the first concert, boys who have toured before brief new boys on bus and hotel rules. The next day, as the bus pulls away from the school, Bryant reviews them: no gum chewing on stage or in hotel lobbies; no comic books in hotel lobbies; if someone is sick on the bus, call for a paper bag before it's too late; no talking while the bus is backing up or while it is stopped and windows open; check your seat partner before leaving the city (on occasion, boys have been left behind) and remember your assignment because no one will remind you. (The assignment may be to pack cos-
