About the Nassoons

The Nassoons, Princeton's oldest informal singing group, are back this evening for their third appearance in the United Festival of Song. Dedicated to preserving the fine tradition of musical excellence begun in 1939, the present Nassoons have an active repertoire of 75 songs, all arranged by past and present members of the group.

While club and reunion engagements in Princeton occupy much of the Nassoons' time, travelling to girls' schools are among their most pleasant "duties". Wellesley, Smith, Vassar, Bennett and Briarcliff are a few of the destinations for their frequent weekend sojourns. The highpoint of the year, however, is their annual spring vacation trip, this year to the Nassau Beach Hotel in Nassau, the Bahamas. In representing Princeton throughout the East, the Nassoons have become an integral part of Princeton's fine singing tradition.
