

WALTER WEXEL - On April 6th during free time, the boys got a chance to go bowling. Because the ten pin bowling lanes were full, we went to the Y.M.C.A. To our surprise, the game was five pins! The shock came when we found out that a game was only twenty cents.

BARRY YACHES - In Charlottetown, P.E.I. we were able to play basketball in the Birchwood High School gymnasium on Saturday morning. A group of Canadian boys played our quickly formed team. The score was 39 - 13 in their favor. It was fun even though we lost.

DOUG ARNOLD - After the concert in Charlottetown, the officials of the Community Concerts Associates gave us a reception at the High School. We had chocolate and plain milk and an assortment of delicious cookies and tea sandwiches. We all appreciated this.

PAUL SUTTERLIN - In Charlottetown we sang in the Queen Charlotte High School. As a whole, the concert was a success. Since we had not sung for four days, we were worried about the concert, but it came out OK. At the beginning of the concert we sang, "God Save the Queen," for the Canadians. At the end when all our jobs were finished, we were given a reception.

STEVE GRUNDER - On the way back from P.E.I., the boys took the same ferry they took to the island. On the trip back, the one hour ride took one hour and fifty minutes because of the ice that surrounded the island. The boys stood up on the bow and watched the boat break through the ice.

TOM FRIEDMAN - Staying in the Augusta House in Augusta, Maine, we met a few members from the world famous Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. They were giving a concert that night in Augusta. This famous orchestra was in the midst of a tour similar to ours.

MARK CROSBY - We drove up to a modern building in Canada and stopped in front of it. The boys piled out of the bus and walked around, played ball, and ran, while Mr. Wolfe, Mrs. Wolfe, Mr. Bryant and Mr. Jones were in the building filling out sheets to make it legal for us to cross the border. The town was very small. In about fifteen minutes, we all got into the bus and left the good, old United States of America.

DOUG KELNER - As we rode along, we say how New Brunswick got its nickname, "The Picture Province". Its rolling hills, green grass, and blue rivers are inviting to everyone. New Brunswick is downright pretty!

ROBERT REITZ - In Fredericton we saw an art museum which had many beautiful paintings. There were paintings by Sir Winston Churchill and by Salvador Dali.

RANDY REEVES - The ferry trip back from Charlottetown on Sunday was just as exciting as the trip going over. The ice was very thick. One time we had to back up about fifty feet and ran the ice very hard.

LESTER ERICH - On Tuesday, April 3rd, we visited the Old Sturbridge Village. The village is made up of houses and antiques that are more than a century old. There are many antiques that are collector's items. There were men and women dressed in 18th century costumes. All boys and the staff enjoyed it very much.
