

ROBERT REITZ - "At Northern Michigan College in Marquette, Mich. the students built huge snow buildings. Some were modelled like the buildings at Bedrock in "The Flintstones."

The house had a roof and chairs that you could sit in. They were really like our homes today but they were made of snow and ice.

We at that night in the "Wildcat Den", the college cafeteria.

The hall and dressing rooms were very nice."

WALTER WEXEL - "On our way to Superior, Wisc. from Marquette, we saw many signs of industry. We saw iron mills and mines all the way through the trip. After going over a toll bridge which connected Superior, Wisc. with Duluth, Minn., we reached our destination. We stayed in the Spalding Hotel in Duluth and sang in Superior, Wisconsin."

JIM WALKER - "On the 24th we had school in the church in Marshfield, Wisc. As usual there were the sighs of hard worked boys, but when we finally settled down to work we all skimmed over the work with enthusiasm.

I rather think we all noticed the great difference from the rather bumpy bus to the semi-peaceful classroom. Our classes started at app. 9:00 AM and ended at 12:30.

During the school period we had a break wherein the gymnasium in the building was used to its fullest. Basketball and other games were played and everyone had a lot of fun."

BILL PRICE - "The boys of the concert choir had a nice time when Mr. Evinrude invited them to hear the organ in the Grace Lutheran Church in Eau Claire, Wisc, Saturday morning. Mr. Evinrude demonstrated several stops and told about them. He also told what each set of pipes was. The boys sang for the children's choir dividing first and second choruses, with one chorus singing from the balcony. The songs sounded different with organ accompaniment and with the choruses separated."

BILL JOHNSON - "In Eau Claire, Wisc., Mr. Evinrude gave us a demonstration on the organ and told us about it. It has 54 racks of pipes with sizes ranging from 6 - 7 feet to 2 - 3 inches. The bellows for the organ are from Switzerland. The keys were pure ivory. Mr. Bryant played the Bach duets and the boys sang for Mr. Evinrude's choir."

DOUG KELNER - "Instead of going to Spooner, Wisc., we went to St. Paul, Minn. After we got settled at the Hotel Lowry, we went out for free time. Some boys went to the YMCA for a swim, others went to the movies. We had a choice of three movies.

Sunday night we went to the concert hall. It was huge and seated about 3000 people. There was a large contour curtain.

The funny thing about it was that there was a hockey game in the same building."

MIKE O'FLAHERTY - "A week-end in St. Paul, Minn., was enjoyed by all members of the Boychoir on tour. We enjoyed the movies and shopping on Saturday and Church on Sunday. After our weekend of fun we gave a concert in the St. Paul Municipal Auditorium. Altogether it was a most enjoyable rest after a week of excellent concerts."

BRUCE KEREEKES - "The boys of the touring choir visited St. Paul Saturday, Feb. 24th, a day ahead of plans. Monday morning a reporter from the Minneapolis Star came on the bus and took pictures of Curt Jeschke, Alan Tucker, Bill Johnson, and Bruce Kerekes being taught by Mrs. Wolfe."
